WEAVER EDUCATOR NAMED DISTRICT TEACHER OF THE YEAR

July 25, 2022

(MACON, GA) – During Monday’s Convocation, the Bibb County School District named Weaver Middle School health and physical education teacher CaTeah Collins its Teacher of the Year. Collins was chosen from among all school-level winners in the District after an application and interview process.

“It is important that my students understand the importance of at least trying to learn a skill as opposed to immediately being defeated by the thought of attempting it,” she said. “As a teacher, this is one of the things I’m most proud to say that I’ve been able to accomplish.”

Entering her 10th year in education, Collins has also served as head coach for girls’ track, volleyball and basketball. Recently, her teams won championships in both basketball and volleyball. In the classroom, Collins places emphasis on an international sports unit that allows students to learn about games and activities from across the world.

Levita Carter of Bernd Elementary School was named runner-up, and the following educators were also finalists for the award: Jana Lambert, Springdale Elementary School; Gina Clark, Southwest High School; and Karston Bradford, W.S. Hutchings College and Career Academy. All the Teachers of the Year will be celebrated at another event in November.
